By BRIAN BELL.
ROSE BOWL, PASADENA, Cal.,
Jan. 1.—(AP)—A quick-thinking, ball-following band of Columbia players concocted the most amazing football magic in the 19 years of Rose Bowl competition to defeat Stanford's Indians, 7 to 0.

A crowd of approximately 40,000, including former President Hoover, a Stanford alumnus, looked on in astonishment.

On a flood-soaked field, the New Yorkers put together two great plays in the second period to score the only touchdown of the contest and then stopped every drive the big western eleven could muster.

A sensational forward pass from Cliff Montgomery to Tony Matal gave the Easterners the ball on Stanford's
15-yard line and on the next play, Al
Barabas galloped across the goal line with no opponent near him, on a smart hidden-ball play.

Stanford threatened at frequent intervals, but could not sustain its drive across the goal line. The Indians came out apparently fired to the nth degree at the start of the second half and sent Bobby Grayson scurrying 60 yards in five plays, dashes of 25 and 19 yards swelling the total, but nothing came of the impressive effensive as a holding penalty brought it up short.

Later, a pass from Grayson to Keith topping left the Indians again knocking at the door but inside the Lions' 15-yard line Grayson fumbled and the alert Montgomery recovered.

Montgomery's kick of the water logged ball did not carry very far—only to the 35-yard line—and with Grayson picking up 13 yards here and 6 and 7 there, Stanford soon had a first down on the Columbia 3-yard line.
Grayson was stopped with 2 yards in two plays, fumbled to lose a yard and then fumbled again, on fourth down, where Ed Brown, the defensive star of the game, fell on the ball on the 1-yard line, marking the Indians' greatest advance.

Columbia was conceded no chance to the game and the best the experts could concede the visitors was that they might make it close. Out

Smoke From Fireplace
Causes Capitol Flurry

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—(AP)—
The capitol today had a brief, and mild, fire scare.

Reporters who remembered the White House fire several Yule seasons ago rallied around the office of Representative Warren, democrat, North Carolina, when smoke poured through a doorway.

Police and an engineer were summoned. It developed that a fireplace had been started up a couple of offices away. Since it was holidays, the blowers were not in operation and the smoke, instead of going up the chimney, filled Warren's office.

MAY LET VOTERS

TALMADGE SAYS

Judge John B. Hutcheson
Declines To Submit Additional Names for De-Kalb Bench.

Governor Eugene Talmadge said
Monday that because of the difference of opinion among lawyers concerning his rights in the controversy arising over the appointment of judges of the Atlanta municipal court he "may decide to let the entire matter stand as it is now and give the voters something to chew on at the election this summer."

The governor made his statement
the first he has made publicly regarding the controversy, after Judge John B. Hutcheson, of the Stone Mountain circuit, followed the suit of the Fulton superior judges in declining the governor's request for additional nominations for the post of judge of the DeKalb division of the municipal court.

Judge Hutcheson, who has developed on a temporary basis as his chief fiscal advisor, antagonism to Baile, led by Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, has developed on Capitol Hill because of his previous banking connections.

Submitted by Letter.
When Woodin left the treasury, Mr.
Roosevelt announced that he had declined to accept the cabinet officer's resignation and hoped for his return after a few months. In the intervening period, it became apparent from Morgenthau's vigorous administration as well as other things, that eventually Woodin would withdraw completely.
His resignation was submitted to the president in a letter from Tucson, Ariz., on December 13.

"It is with great regret that I am compelled to tender you my resignation," he wrote. "I have been unable to take effect at your convenience any time before January 1." He said, "The state of my health will not permit me to remain in this position."

"That you feel you must definitely leave the treasury post by the end of the year is, of course, a great sorrow to me," said Mr. Roosevelt in reply.
"I am sure that you will be able to return to the treasury after a short rest."

Sees Recovery.
"I know, however, that it is of the highest importance that you should officially care, and that with your fine courage and constitution you will soon be back to work. Remember that when that day comes you are wanted in the service of the country."

An echo of the repeated denials that Woodin was out of sympathy with the concentration policy which preceded and followed his withdrawal in November was seen in a paragraph of the president's letter which said:

"Henry Morgenthau Jr., will go in on January 1, and I am happy in the thought that you so strongly approve the choice."

Morgenthau participated in the disposition of the president's gold-buying program and the managed currency campaign before becoming acting secretary, and one of his first acts was to resign.

sufficient to balance the state's books

Mrs. Kemp Offers
To Oppose Sanders

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—(AP)—To avoid a congressional contest, Mrs.
Bolivar E. Kemp proposed again tonight that both she and her opponent, J. H. Sanders Jr., resign and submit themselves to a general election to the house from the sixth Louisiana district.

Mrs. Kemp was nominated by the district executive committee and elected December 5 in an election called by Governor O. K. Allen without a primary.

Sanders, a state senator and leader of a faction opposed to the political organization of Senator Long, democrat, Louisiana, charged the Kemp election was illegal, and in turn he was elected in a citizens' election on December 27.

WOODIN RESIGNS,
MORGENTHAU GETS

Roosevelt Gives Old Friend Cabinet Title as Well as Responsibility as Financier Quits.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—(AP)—
President Roosevelt was informed tonight that 97 per cent of the nation's bank depositors would be insured under the new deposit insurance which becomes effective tomorrow.

Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, reported to Mr. Roosevelt that deposits in 13,423 banks will be insured.

He said that only 141 banks had been found ineligible and predicted that a number of them might be insured by making certain corrections.

This, tomorrow for the first time in American history, depositors of sums up to $2,500 will be insured against loss.

After July 1 this insurance will be increased to $10,000.

"I congratulate you," wrote President Roosevelt in response to the report of Cummings, and E. G. Bennett and J. F. T. O'Connor, "because you have in these few months accomplished with complete success a gi-gantic task which the pessimists said could not possibly be done before January 1."

"I am also happy to know of the fine co-operation given to you by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

All national banks and members of the federal reserve system are automatically insured under the new federal law.

To become members of the federal insurance guarantee, state banks were required to meet rigid conditions by the federal authorities.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation opened its vaults to sound institutions requiring additional backing.

By the purchase of this capital stock in many institutions, the government has perhaps the greatest interest in and control over the banking structure of the nation in recent history.

JOHNSON NAMED
DECATUR MAYOR

Scott Candler Loses Post
After Several Terms;
Other Changes Made.

Scott Candler, for several successive terms mayor of Decatur, retired from his post Monday night to be succeeded by J. C. Johnson, after the latter was elected at the annual election of the board of commissioners.

Johnson was sworn in immediately by B. F. Burgess, clerk of Decatur county superior court, and took office.

Johnson and Candler were elected members of the city board on last December 6, when the former mayor received 1,031 votes as against 611 for Johnson.

Johnson, who now holds an official position in the city, was elected to the work of the administration and concentrate its efforts on the problem most immediately concerned with the welfare of farmers.

The reorganization completes changes within the administration which began a month ago when differences in policy between Peek and former President D. M. Threlkeld, representative of North Carolina, and representative Byrns, of Tennessee, the majority leader, also was present.

Evincing greater confidence in economic conditions and wearing a happy smile, Robinson told newspapermen
after the senate meeting this afternoon that the Roosevelt administration was the "only leadership possible," that private enterprise must now pitch in and make the government's emergency program less burdensome, and that congress would have fewer major problems to solve at this session compared with the special meeting last spring.

Free coinage of silver, for which about a third of the senate has pledged its support in advance of the session, was not made by the mayor cussed, but Robinson said the "disposition is to support the president's policy on the monetary question."

"We feel that his leadership is the only leadership possible," he said in a statement dictated to newspapermen, "and that he is demonstrating both determination and prudence in his efforts to promote national recovery."

Although no decisions were reached pending the delivery of the president's message in the opening day, discussion of the important current expenditures committee of the board of education to succeed Dr.

the board.

and chairman of the important current expenditures committee of the board in 1932; Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, Frank K. Flinn, eighth ward member, and former President D. M. Threlkeld, who succeeds Baird, are those reported in the battle.

Mayor James L. Key will deliver his annual message, which will be broadcast over WGST, and Dr. W. H.
Knight, pastor of the Baptist tabernacle, will deliver the invocation.

Committee assignments for the new year also will be made by the mayor.

Ed A. Gilliam are slated to be elected new council.

Complications Looming

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 1.—

Rumanian situation were threatened today when Nicholas Titulescu, returning from Switzerland, announced that he would submit his resignation as foreign minister.

The veteran statesman declared he no longer wanted to remain a member of a government which "so significantly failed to take sufficiently energetic measures against a movement"
(the anti-Semitic Iron Guard) which "imperiled not only the inner political but foreign relations."

member of the outlawed Iron Guard.

F. D. R. DISCUSSES
BUDGET MEASURE
WITH SOLONS, AIDS

Robinson Expects Congress To Back Roosevelt Monetary Plan; Leaders
Meet With Executive.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—(AP)—
President Roosevelt tonight went over his new budget with democratic congressional leaders at a three-hour
White House conference.

On the eve of the meeting of congress, the president discussed his ideas with Vice President Garner and Speaker Rainey and the financial leaders of Capitol Hill.

The White House conference followed meeting of senate democrats this afternoon, during which the entire legislative outlook was canvassed.
Later Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the majority leader, predicted to newspapermen that the president's monetary policies would be upheld.

Mr. Roosevelt's plans for the first budget to be submitted by him to congress, including his hopes for a surplus above ordinary expenditures to meet emergency recovery expenditures next year, were discussed in detail tonight with the congressional chieftains.

There was a distinct feeling prevailing in some quarters that the president was ready to enunciate new policies, but the president's plan is aimed at revaluation of the dollar and complete control of the basic gold supply.

Those invited to the White House tonight, besides Garner, Rainey and Robinson included the chairmen of the senate and house appropriations committees, Senator Glass, of Virginia, and Representative Buchanan, of Texas, and the chairman of the senate finance and house ways and means committee, Senator Harrison, of Mississippi.

Representative Doughton, of North Carolina,
representative Byrns, of Tennessee, the

COUNTY LEADERS TO LEAVE OFFICE

Etheridge and Hendrix Will Not Offer for Re-election.

Paul S. Etheridge and Walter C. Hendrix, county commissioners, will retire from public life upon the termination of their terms of office at the close of 1934, it was announced Monday. Both men, engaged in the practice of law, stated that their reasons for declining to offer for re-election are the press of private affairs.

First runners to follow the announcement, which will probably precipitate a lively political fight, are to the effect that Edwin F. Johnson, who has figured in county and city politics for many years, will be a candidate for commissioner from the county, the post now held by Hendrix. Other candidates are expected to enter the field immediately.

Hewitt Chambers, secretary of the Fulton county democratic executive committee, stated Monday that a meeting will be held within the next few days to set a date for the county primary, in which candidates for the two positions will be nominated.

Johnson, whose announcement is considered assured, was a former county commissioner for several terms and was chairman of the board. He also formerly held the office of county tax receiver.

The close of the present year will conclude 16 years' service on the part of Etheridge, who is now head of the finance committee. He has been chairman of the board four times. A member of the law firm of Etheridge, Etheridge, Belser & Etheridge, he was a candidate in 1932 for judge of the superior court, in which race he was defeated by Judge G. H. Howard. Hendrix, now head of the public works committee, has been a member of the board for six years, and has also served as chairman.

Dr. W. L. Gilbert, whose term as a member of the board also expires with the present year, has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election.

4 VICTIMS OF CRASHES REPORTED RECOVERING

Four persons injured in accidents over the week-end were recovering from their hurts Monday. Three were patients in hospitals and the fourth was dismissed after treatment.

Miss Frances Stanley, of 627 East College avenue, a passenger in the automobile in which E. Morgan, 24-year-old Decatur fireman, was killed when their car struck a street car on Peachtree road early Sunday morning, was reported in an improved condition in Crawford W. Long hospital.

H. P. Grier, 40, of 88 DePoe avenue, who was severely injured late Sunday when knocked down on Mill road by a speeding coal truck, was in a "fair condition" Monday in Grady hospital. Witnesses to the accident chased the truck driver and brought about his arrest but the police withheld his name, explaining their investigation was incomplete.

J. J. Maddox, 16, a Tech High school student, of 46 North Moreland avenue, who was struck down Sunday night at Semihole and Blue Ridge avenues while on the way to late church services with a group of friends, was said to be better Monday. He was at Grady. The name of the driver of the automobile which struck him was not given in police report.

H. C. Walton, of 106 Erickson street, who was hurt when his car was forced from the road near Fairburn, was treated at Grady hospital and dismissed.

Funeral services for Mr. Morgan whose injuries in the Peachtree road accident proved fatal a little while after he was taken to Crawford Long hospital, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of A. S. Turner, in Decatur. The Rev. Robert L. Armour will officiate and interment will be in the Decatur cemetery.

DRIVING STOLEN CAR, MAN HURT IN CRASH

C. C. McElroy, 25, of 511 South Main street, East Point, Monday night was admitted to Grady hospital for treatment of injuries received when a car, driven by McElroy and said to have been stolen from the Florence Motor Company, crashed into a telephone pole at Hendrix avenue and Cooper street, according to police reports.

McElroy was found in the wrecked car by Radio Patrolmen J. G. Bowman and J. B. Bishop, police said. The automobile, almost demolished, was identified by J. S. Florence as a machine stolen from his company, officers said.

Dressy Esky and Mo Pay Surprise Visit to Atlanta

Esky and Mo talking it over with Ralph McGill, Constitution sports editor, following their unannounced and unexpected visit to him. Staff photo.

By RALPH MCGILL.

When I opened my eyes there were still there, Esky and Mo.

They were standing right there at my feet. Their dress suits were neat, their eyes quizzical.

I looked quickly out the window. And back at the floor. Esky and Mo were still there.

There seemed nothing to do except call up the family physician and tell him to send around the ambulance.

Because after a New Year's party one doesn't feel just right to look down and see Esky and Mo waddle in and stop there with their quizzical eyes.

And what are penguins doing in Atlanta anyhow? And especially on the morning after New Year's Eve?

It was not until Captain Volney Phifer came in, six feet and some 200 pounds of man, and introduced Esky and Mo that things really got normal again.

Volney Phifer is here with some husky dogs and the two young penguins, Esky and Mo, as advance for the showing of the picture Eskimo at the grand on the 12th.

The Cutest Ever.

You'd heard of something being as cute as a little red wagon, or as cute as a speckled pup. But you haven't seen anything cute until you've seen Esky and Mo in their permanent dress suits.

Penguins, bouncers and movie gangsters are the only people who wear dress suits permanently. After we had been introduced, Esky and Mo apologized for walking in without knocking on the morning after the New Year's Eve parties. But I hastened to assure them it was all right. Had they knocked and then walked in it would have been too much, really.

They were divided as to their dress suits. You see, the penguin is really born with a dress suit on. Which, you must admit, is something. Esky likes his.

"I think it's great," he said. "After all, a fellow really looks his best in a dress suit. And one can't be wrong. Of course it isn't so good in the morning. But taken all in all it's pretty nice."

Mo isn't so sure. "Now and then," he said, "I'd like to put on a business suit and sort of relax. This business of always wearing a dress suit gets a little tiresome now and then."

Captain Phifer, who introduced them, said that Esky and Mo were veteran actors. They appeared in some M-G-M. shorts a few months ago and were pets aboard the amazing ship Nanook when it was frozen in the ice for a year during the filming of the picture Eskimo.

Found in Antarctic.

Penguins are found only in the antarctic region, never in the arctic. Esky and Mo have shown an amazing capacity for adapting themselves to situations. They lived well in the arctic zone and in California. And they travel well. They didn't like Atlanta weather so well.

"Say," said Esky, who is really the talkative one of the two, "this is lousy weather. My feet are just itching to stand on some ice. I was out at a party last night but this fellow had an electric refrigerator and he couldn't get enough cubes for us to stand on. And if I don't see some snow soon I'm going to be homesick."

Captain Phifer proved to be even more interesting than Esky and Mo. He is German born and is a fine figure of a man. He was literally born into the animal training business. Five generations before him on his father's side and four on his mother's side of the family were animal trainers. He had four brothers and they are all in the business.

For some years now he has been with M-G-M. as a technical man. He handled all the animal scenes for "Trader Horn" and for all the animal scenes in M-G-M. pictures.

He worked with all the larger zoological gardens in Europe and with many in America. He is intimately acquainted with all phases of the business, having worked with circuses, zoos, major carnivals and stage and movie attractions.

The zoological business in Europe has slumped even more than in the United States. Those having private collections are disposing of them. He mentioned the collection of the Rothschilds in Europe which was valued at more than one million pounds.

It requires years to really put on a real animal act. Captain Phifer revealed that the "cat acts," those involving tigers and lions, are often in training for as long as four years before being put on the stage. It is this expense which has reduced the demand for animal acts.

Elephant easiest to train.

The elephant according to Captain Phifer, is the easiest of all animals to train. The best of the lot for training are the Asiatic elephants. The elephant adapts himself to captivity easily and seems to understand what is trying to be done," said the animal expert. He believes elephants easier to train than any domestic animal, even the dog.

The Kodiak bear, largest of all carnivorous animals, often stands six feet high at the shoulder when down on its all fours, said Captain Phifer. Neither is nor the Grizzly have even been broken and trained.

It was a very interesting conversation but just then Esky and Mo were heard whispering.

"Every time the captain gets around newspapermen they ask him dumb questions like that," said Esky. "I wish he'd hurry up. I want some fish. And I can't make up my mind if I want herring or trout. The shad I had last night was not so good."

Penguins, called "stolid soldiers of the south," march along in a perfectly fascinating manner. The latest report from the Byrd expedition was that the first penguins were sighted on Saturday. They were of the adelle species, which was exactly the species of Esky and Mo.

They are friendly little birds when tamed. Their feathers are so small and compact as to give the appearance of fur similar to that of the seal. They live on fish.

"And say," said Esky, "while I'm at it I want you to see the Eskimo girls. I've been looking the girls over and will be giving them the double O this week in the window next to the Grand. You go to see that picture and it will interest you in a railroad ticket to our country."

The penguins, cuter than any speckled pup you ever saw, will be on display at the Grand for three days.

But why I didn't go ahead and leap out the window when Esky and Mo walked in, unannounced, is more than I will ever know.

PHILIPPINE PROGRAM OFFERED TO PRESIDENT

Foreign Policy Association Suggests Restricted "Independence."

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—(AP)—A six-point program of independence for the Philippines was recommended to President Roosevelt today by a committee sponsored by the Foreign Policy Association and the World Peace Foundation.

Designed to "furnish a fair and equitable arrangement" satisfactory to both the United States and its insular possession, the program calls for:

1. The Philippines should at once be given a system of responsible government, subject to certain restricted rights of intervention by an American governor general.

2. While enjoying this status, the islands should have the right to conclude certain treaties and be represented at international conferences.

3. This period of responsible government should terminate at the end of ten years, subject to the conclusion of an international neutralization agreement.

4. The United States should surrender all naval bases in the Philippines to take effect upon neutralization and compact as to give the appearance of fur similar to that of the seal. They live on fish.

U. S. BODY DEFENDS SECURITIES LAW

Trade Commission Denies It Will Interfere With Flow of Capital.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—(AP)—The federal trade commission is addressing to congress a flat denial that the "truth in securities" act will interfere greatly with the flow of legitimate capital.

In its annual report the commission asserts that while its insistence on the publication of full information about a new stock or bond does not judge the soundness or value of the security, such publication "will prevent a large part of the frauds that have heretofore been practiced."

"It will be the purpose of the federal trade commission," the report says, "to prevent further exploitation of the public by the sale of fraudulent and worthless securities through misrepresentation, to cause to be placed adequate and true information before investors, and to protect honest enterprise seeking capital against the competition made by securities offered through dishonest promotion and misrepresentation."

"While the commission intends to administer the act so as to give purchasers of securities full and accurate information, at the same time neither the act nor its administration will offer any serious obstacles to the legitimate financing of legitimate business."

Investment bankers and others have charged that the securities act's liabilities clause has stopped underwriters and corporations from floating new issues on the ground they would be held unreasonably liable for inadvertent omissions or misstatements.

The commission's report, in a section dealing with false advertising, says "comparison of the advertising columns of current magazines a few years ago with the same magazines today shows a marked improvement in the class and text of current advertising."

Girl's Note Bares Choice of Death Rather Than Give Money to Robbers

NORTH WILKESBORO, N. C., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Discovery of a note left by Leta Childress, 18, today led to recovery of $610 believed stolen from her foster parents' home when she was slain Saturday and unfolded a story of her defiance of four robbers in the face of death threats.

The note, left in an apron the girl was wearing, informed her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warwick Tilley, that she had hidden the money in the cellar of a tobacco barn.

The missive said four men were in the house and had given her 20 minutes to get the money.

Under threat of death to reveal where her foster parents' money was hidden, and she was using the time to write the note. Rather than give them the money, she would die, the girl wrote.

The letter bade farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Tilley and to "Andrew," whose last name officers said they did not know. They were informed, Sheriff W. B. Somers said, that he was Leta's sweetheart.

Four men were held tonight in connection with the slaying of the girl, who was found shot to death with a small caliber rifle. They are Porter, Blaine and Taft Norman, brothers, and Jesse Brewer.

BURLESQUE SHOW MUCH IMPROVED OVER LAST WEEK

The show at the Atlanta theater this week is far better than the fare they dished last. In fact the improvement is so marked that it is hard to believe that, with a few exceptions, the company is the same.

The song numbers are put over in altogether livelier style, the dances are performed with snap and precision and the comedy, while perhaps not quite so broad, is handled with a workmanlike finish that was sadly missed in the previous show.

Personally, while giving credit wherever it is due, I am inclined to hand a bouquet to the orchestra. Whether or not they are the same musicians I couldn't testify, but they don't sound like the same crew at all. This outfit catch their cues, put life and jazz into their performance and generally inspire everybody, audience included.

Producer Kolb has several song and dance numbers of which he can be proud. That snow scene would be a credit to any man's show, the South Sea number is another winner and the heart ensemble deserves mention.

Of the individual performers there are several who dance in just the style burlesque audiences appreciate. Alma Stinson is a stripper of first-class rating and possesses one of those "school girl" complexions all over. Then you should surely see the girl—name I don't know—who does the hula solo in the South Sea number. She shakes a wicked torso.

And the olio act, La Belle Ray Company, are clever performers on the trapeze rings—two women, a man and a very little woman.

You'll find "Hot Hips"—that's the name of the show—good entertainment for anybody's money this week. Sharp advice, to get your seats for next week right away, because everybody in Georgia seems to be determined to see Peaches Brown.

Italy Sees Year of Fair Prices Under New 'State Capitalism'

ROME, Jan. 1.—(AP)—Italians looked forward today to a new year of "fair prices" established by the state as part of an economic house-cleaning.

Under the new system, approved recently by the grand council of fascists and subject to legislative ratification this month, law-making, price-fixing and competition-regulating powers are given 13 corporations or guilds working through a national council and Premier Mussolini.

The individual guild must set up a manufacturing cost of the product it produces. Its price then will be set at a "fair price," allowing a margin of profit and at the same time seeing that the workers are properly remunerated and the public supplied.

As a cabinet minister or an under-secretary is to preside over each of the 13 corporations, which embrace all branches of commerce, industry, and the professions, the state has assumed itself a predominant part in this price-fixing.

That fact is causing the vested interests to worry. Whether the judgment of the state will uphold their ideas of a fair profit is in many cases problematical.

Gino Arias, a member of the national council of corporations—successor law-making body of the new system—called it the "corporate profit," but did not disclose what margin it will embrace.

He added that freedom of initiative is preserved under the new order, "but bound by its due responsibilities," will be regulated, he said, "when necessary, guarantee its subordination to the interests of the people."

30 KNOWN DEAD, 25 ARE MISSING IN CALIF. DELUGE

dered into the Montrose district to patrol roads and direct refugees in the area must be effected. The Verdugo highway, a road winding through the foothills, was the only connecting link with the stricken district and safety.

Damage in Glendale centered along the Arroyo Verdugo wash, which bisects the city. All bridges over the wash were wrecked. All debris was being brought into the city. Floodlights for many darkened sections of Glendale and Montrose were furnished by the Hollywood film studios.

Schools in all stricken areas were ordered closed tomorrow.

In Los Angeles, Echo Park lake backed up to the very doorsteps of the Sunset Boulevard mansion of the late John D. Rockefeller, Jr., temple. More than a score of automobiles and trucks were damaged when an 11-foot wall of water crashed into the county road department's warehouse near Lincoln Park.

All-Time Record.

The "day total" of precipitation in Los Angeles was 4.51 inches. The total for the storm, weather bureau records showed, was 8.26 inches. For the season the total was 11.48 inches.

Weather bureau officials said the storm established an all-time record. E. C. Eaton, county flood control engineer, attributed the Montrose tragedy to a cloudburst. He said he had received reports that the greatest recorded precipitation was at Hogue's camp in the Glendale mountains, 18.50 inches for the storm and 31.40 for the season.

Furious waters in high walls and freights converged from the Hall and Beckley canyons, carrying mud, debris and boulders into Montrose homes. In some cases the walls of water that rushed down the dry canyons were described as being 25 feet high. Thirty-five human persons, authorities said, were driven from 1,200 homes.

Coastal regions also were hit. At the community of Los Alamitos, life guards, policemen, and citizen volunteers were pressed into service. They manned life boats to search the flood-swept zone. An area of three square miles was under water.

In Long Beach, one bridge was closed because of peril. On Anaheim boulevard, a bridge at the westerly entrance to the city, caved in.

Red Cross Worker Dead.

Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz and a police captain were the first to penetrate the flooded Montrose straits. They established a temporary morgue and hospital. By a grim coincidence, the first body identified by Red Cross workers at Montrose was that of Mrs. Myrtle Adams, former head of the Red Cross in that vicinity.

The community was in ruins, the sheriff said. Dirt, rocks, trees and other debris covered the street. Homes were demolished. At least 100 others were seriously damaged. Stores and offices were inundated.

For more than 24 hours, all light and heat was cut off from the Los Angeles General hospital, both the old building and the new $12,000,000 structure being affected. Candles were used for lighting, and extra blankets were piled over the patients. Gas stoves were used to prepare meals.

Police were seeking the bodies of two persons reported drowned at the Bohemian Gardens, night club. The resort is in a ravine, through which a torrent swept, covering nearly 200 cars in a parking station.

The storm struck fiercely at the Los Feliz Hills region and the line of palatial homes bordering Riverside drive below Griffith park.

Ten Feet of Water.

Many blocks of Riverside drive were torn by the raging Los Angeles river as it overflowed its banks and cut into the highway grading. The lower Griffith Park golf course was flooded, as were the bridge paths and the highway. In some instances the terrain was beneath 10 feet of water.

A part of the Griffith Park zoo was wrecked by a heavy landslide. Scores of animals were freed. Caretakers were searching for the frightened beasts.

A revised list of dead and missing persons in the southern California rainstorm was issued tonight by authorities.

regulation of stock exchanges, amendment of the banking laws, the advisability of extending the licensing provisions of the recovery act, money, possible amendment of the securities act, granting of power to the executive to make reciprocal tariff treaties, and the general subject of unemployment.

The president's monetary policy will cause discussion during the session, the general feeling being, as gathered by the chairman, "that there is a single course which commends itself."

Marked Improvement.

"There has already come a marked improvement in economic conditions. The president has used the extraordinary (monetary) powers granted him with notable discretion and effectiveness."

"His leadership has fully justified itself, although it is recognized that there must come still further advance."

"I believe it is proper to say that the federal government cannot supply all the credit necessary to restore normal price levels and living conditions. Its activities must be supplemented by a quickening of private initiative and enterprise."

"Private credit institutions must function more freely and to the extent that this occurs the problems of national legislation pertaining to economic subjects will be simplified and lessened."

The committee went over the legislative outlook after filling several vacancies on the regular standing committees of the senate caused by deaths and resignations since the last session. Robinson said indications were that the "number of important measures to be advanced would not be so great as to prevent a conclusion of the session at a comparatively early date." He thought it could finish by mid-May at the latest.

"It is expected," he said, "that the meetings of the senate for a time will be arranged with a view to affording the committees the opportunity to work out and report the measures which from time to time will be brought forward."

Senate May Adjourn.

While the house on Wednesday gets down to its Louisiana contest over the seating of Mrs. Bolivar Kemp, the senate is expected to adjourn after a few organization formalities.

Several questions are pending in the senate, including the St. Lawrence waterway treaty, the arms embargo resolution, and the bill to permit appointment of a governor of Hawaii from the continent, but Robinson said it had not been decided what would be considered first by the senate.

Those attending the committee meeting besides the chairman were Senators Harrison, Mississippi; Lewis, Illinois; Fletcher, Florida; Ashurst, Arizona; Sheppard, Texas; Tydings, Maryland; Black, Alabama; Wheeler, Montana; King, Utah; and McKellar, Tennessee.

Wheeler is leading the silver monetization movement. He had nothing to say upon emerging from the meeting. He has announced he will introduce his free silver bill as soon as the rules permit and has predicted senate approval unless President Roosevelt openly opposes it.

Feud Seen in Killing Of Two Louisianans

KENTWOOD, La., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Bob Travis, 24, and his reputed negro bodyguard, Bill Nixon, 35, were found shot to death near here today.

The authorities linked their deaths with a long standing feud in the section.

Travis was out on $2,500 bond for the slaying of Claude Bridges, near Amite, La., on October 12 in an encounter involving members of the Travis and Bridges families. Officers said Henry Bridges and Reid Birch, father and friend, respectively, of Claude Bridges, are under charges of assault filed by Travis and are out on $500 bonds.

It is no longer necessary for men and women to suffer from poorly functioning Kidneys and Bladder without the benefits of a remarkably successful prescription prepared specially for these troubles, and which is available at every drug store.

Dr. C. J. Roberts, Graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and formerly of the Philadelphia General Hospital, recently wrote:

"In my years of practice I have encountered many medicines and prescriptions to improve the functional action of the Kidneys, but in my opinion there is no preparation that excels the prescription known as 'Cystex.' The formula is in every package. It starts work in 15 minutes and is a gentle aid to the Kidneys in their work of cleansing out Acids and Poisonous waste matter. It soothes, tones and cleanses raw, sore, irritated Bladder and Urinary membranes."

Because of its amazing and almost world-wide success, the Doctor's Prescription known as Cystex (pronounced Siss-tex) is offered to sufferers of poor Kidney and Bladder functions under the following guarantee:

Nearly 200,000 Brave Rain To See Tournament of Roses Parade

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 1.—(AP)—A multi-hued, flower-laden parade of hidden wheels thrilled nearly 200,000 persons who crowded pneumonia in a driving rain today to see Pasadena's Tournament of Roses parade.

"Tales of the Seven Seas" were recalled with nearly a hundred motorized floats fashioned from 5,000,000 flowers.

It was a sight that might have given the even royal Neptune pause, had he been here on this Parnassus of the Pacific slope—home of the California Institute of Technology, the Mount Wilson observatory, writers, patrons of the arts and savants of high degree.

It was the 45th annual parade, with which Pasadena shoots the world the variety of flowers that bloom in southern California in the winter time.

From former President Herbert Hoover on down the spectators sought shelter of umbrellas, newspapers and semi-tropical palms as the six-mile parade, representing a score of cities, moved along in the rain.

Flowered galleons of ancient days glided down the boulevards and hydrant galleons poured from the skies. Attractive girls in scanty parade attire, shivered as their blossom-woven floats moved by.

The parade was led by Admiral William S. Sims who said he would lead it if he had to swim—but he turned up in a motor car carrying an umbrella.

In a yellow slicker and sudden hat, former President Hoover braved the downcoming torrents to see the entire parade. A girl on a float espied him and she and sister mimed him with a grin for their hand waves.

Hitler Sees Bright Future For Germany Under Nazis

Policy of Peace Reaffirmed by Chancellor in New Year's Message to President Von Hindenburg.

BERLIN, Jan. 1.—(AP)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler told President Paul von Hindenburg at a new year's reception today that the German nation entered a brighter future when the aged president on last January 30 entrusted to him the office of the chief executive.

Crediting von Hindenburg with having initiated a long absent unity in the nation, Hitler said "the power issuing therefrom enabled us to cement the reich firmly together, call a halt in the religious, moral and cultural decay, and improve the country's economic position."

"Thanks to your confidence in me and the government, we have been enabled, while guarding our honor and rights to equal treatment, to pursue a policy whose ultimate aim is, and will remain a true and sincere peace."

President von Hindenburg, wearing an evening dress suit adorned with the highest military decorations and with the comparatively young chancellor, in evening dress, at his side, received the diplomatic corps and government officials in the first new year's function in the reich since Germany's expressed desire for peace furnished the burden of messages exchanged between the president and the papal nuncio, Cesare Orsenigo, dean of the diplomatic corps.

After felicitating the venerable president on his excellent health, "which defies work and years," the nuncio said:

"Our hearts rejoice when the men to whom you entrusted the fate of this country solemnly declared their willingness peacefully to settle in an amicable spirit the differences existing between Germany and other nations."

GERMAN EXPULSION REVEALED BY WRITER

BOSTON, Jan. 1.—(AP)—Roger Ames Burr, journalist and former diplomat, arrived in Boston today aboard the S. S. Capodi and told immigration authorities he had been expelled from Germany because of an article he had written which criticized Chancellor Hitler.

Burr, a son of the late Herman Burr of Boston, and related to several Greater Boston families, said the article in question was written more than a year ago but that the rebound was not felt until the nazis had gained control of the government.

In the article, Burr told newspapers, he criticized Hitler and Franz von Papen for "not getting together for the common good of Germany."

NEBRASKA BOY KILLED WHILE HUNTING RABBITS

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Ernest Harvath, 10, died today from a gunshot wound accidentally inflicted by a boy companion while hunting rabbits yesterday.

Carrying shotguns received as Christmas presents, Harvath and Julius Miller, also 10, sighted a scurrying bunny, Miller's thumb slipped from the hammer of his gun in his haste to get a shot and Harvath fell, shot between the shoulder blades.

VET BOARDS GRANT HALF OF APPEALS

Service Connection Established in 42.87% of Disability Cases.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Nearly half of the cases considered by special boards of review, created last August to pass on border line cases of war veterans' presumptive service disabilities, were found to be service-connected.

Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, tonight made public the consolidated report of the 128 boards which met in 53 regional areas.

Of the 51,213 cases reviewed, 21,955 or 42.87 per cent were found to be service-connected. The percentages of allowed and disallowed cases in the several regional areas varied from 23.48 per cent allowed in the Burlington, Vt. area to 74.68 allowed in the Charlotte, N. C. area.

Hines said the principal reasons for the variance were:

"The personal appearance by veterans or their representatives and evidence given their statements; effective presentation of the presumptive cases in some places by representatives of service organizations and the submission of additional evidence and the fact that some boards placed a more liberal interpretation upon the law, regulations and instructions than others."

The report indicated that several boards placed emphasis on combat service as a causative factor in the subsequent development of neuropsychiatric and tuberculosis disabilities, Hines said.

The percentage of neuropsychiatric service-connected cases in the large cities was found to be high. In New York city, 91 of the 1,459 service-connected cases were neuropsychiatric.

ATTRACTIVE SMOCK WHICH WILL HELP.

It's a gay and cheerful thing to have about the place, don't you think? The original smock or overall—for it is one of those affairs that is so easily slipped over one's "best" dress—was of yellow shiny finished cotton broadcloth. The belt was fastened with a large brown bone buckle. The tiny bone buttons down the back, repeat the brown accent.

It favors the shirtwaist collar. And note how the bodice is given a yoke effect and the ample fullness over the bust.

This youthful smock can be made in full length (as seen in back view) or in shorter length as in main view.

It is also lovely for office wear, for away at college and for bridge parties.

Dimity prints, pongee, plain or checked gingham, lawn, etc., also make up smartly in this easily made model.

Size No. 385 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches bust. Size 385 requires 3 1/4 yards of 38-inch material.

Zack D. Cravey, of McRae, Monday was sworn in as state game and fish commissioner by Governor Eugene Talmadge, who also administered the oath of office to John A. Heck, of Marietta, who starts a new six-year term as highway commissioner, and W. Eugene Wilburn, of Oglethorpe, who received a new commission as chairman of the state highway board for four years.

Cravey succeeds Peter S. Twitty, announced that Louise Wright, of Rome, will be his chief clerk, and Mrs. C. H. Geppert, of Atlanta, will be his secretary. Cravey, 37, of 871 Wilbur street, has a wife and three children to Atlanta from Telfair county, where he was tax commissioner from 1921 until he resigned to accept the appointment.

Cravey began his political career at the age of 21 as mayor of Milan, Telfair county. He was cashier of the Farmers & Merchants bank of that city for years, and served as a non-commissioned officer in the 824 division during the World War.

SEN. McNARY SEEKS TO REBUILD G. O. P.

Committee Named To Conduct Party's Senatorial Election Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—(AP)—In the first move to rebuild the republican party since the overwhelming defeat of 1932, Senator McNary, senate leader, today named a committee of nine to conduct the campaign for election of republican senators next fall.

Senator Hastings, of Delaware, was appointed to head the committee, closely balanced between the conservative and progressive factions of the party.

McNary made a bid for a united front with the announcement that the committee would support all republican candidates and would not go behind their nominations to determine what faction they represented.

"There will be no discrimination with respect to the definition of the word republicanism," he said.

Senator Dickinson, of Iowa, one of the republicans who has been most outspoken in criticism of the democratic administration, was named as vice chairman of the committee.

Others named were: Capper, of Kansas; Norbeck, of South Dakota; White, of Maine; Nye, of North Dakota; Barbour, of New Jersey; Steiwer, of Oregon, and Carey, of Wyoming.

Ordinarily of minor importance, the senatorial campaign committee is expected to play an influential part in this year's election because of the financial impotence of the national committee.

McNary said it would conduct its own campaign to raise funds for support of the republican candidates, with headquarters in New York, and sub-headquarters in Chicago.

WORLD'S BUSINESS BETTER, O'NEIL SAYS

By W. O'NEIL, President of the General Tire and Rubber Company.

Business today is definitely better all over the world than it was a year ago with the possible exception of France and Germany. Business is better in England than it has been in 20 years. It was definitely better in the United States during the year that has just closed than it was in 1932.

All these factors indicate that we are on the upgrade, commercially and industrially.

During 1931 and most of 1932 our company suffered consistently increasing credit losses. However, during the past year and a half, with the single exception of one month, we have collected more money each month than our total sales. This indicates that our dealers are doing more satisfactory business.

Costs are rising; wages are rising; values are rising. There probably will be some interruptions in the trend toward better times, but they will be merely interruptions.

There is a definite trend upward today. When the value of merchandise increases steadily it encourages dealers. It gives them new hope and renewed faith in their own ability to obtain additional orders. It makes them go after business more enthusiastically. This improved morale in itself makes for better business.

There are some troubles with the NRA codes, but, as a whole, they are doing better than any of the pessimists care to admit. The cotton code is helping. The steel men like their code. Automobile men have renewed their faith. Certainly, the rubber code will not be harmful. Let's back the president.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 1.—(AP)—C. E. Griswold, 40, of Miami, Fla., was seriously injured today in an automobile collision on the Lincoln highway near Langhorne, north of this city.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT IN SOUTH GEORGIA

Farmers' Financial Condition Better; Higher Prices Revive Hopes.

By CLYDE BEALE.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Farmers of south Georgia today faced the new year with far more hope and prospects of better times than they did in 1932.

Their financial condition better and their chances very good of getting additional benefits from the federal government and higher prices, they feel as they are "seeing the light" for the first time in several years. They consider 1933 the beginning of their new deal and they are hoping better times will materialize in the new year. A survey of 1933 and the conditions and things which brought about improvement in south Georgia agriculture shows that:

(1) A mild winter, a fine growing season, and a hot dry summer with rains coming in the nick of time caused farmers to produce excellent crops.

(2) The weather was "right" for tobacco and blue mold failed to wreck heavy damage among young plants and an increase of 400 per cent was noted in the bright leaf tobacco crop in 1933 as compared with that of 1932. For this crop buyers paid slightly higher prices than they did in 1932.

(3) The 1933 watermelon crop showed a reduction of 30 per cent from that of 1932, but growers received 49 per cent more than they did in 1932.

(4) Average rentals from plowing up portions of their cotton acreage brought thousands of dollars into the pockets of south Georgia farmers. They also reaped the benefit of the great increase in price which followed this program of destroying cotton, the average price for 1932 being about 5 1/2 cents, while the 1933 market paid an average of about 9 cents per pound. The government allowing the farmer to borrow 10 cents per pound on cotton toward the close of the year also helped.

The cotton crop, thriving in the hot dry summer, was one of the best ever produced in south Georgia.

Corn and beans are the only major crops which did not show an improvement in prices, due to the fact that the export trade has been cut down considerably during the past few years.

Feed crops were not as good as they have been in the past, due to the dry weather.

Having co-operated with the federal government in its agricultural adjustment program and found it to their interest, south Georgia farmers are lining up to get 1934 to reduce their tobacco, cotton, corn, and hog crops and receive the adjustments which will follow.

Debt-ridden and their borrowing powers materially lessened, many farmers used little fertilizer in 1933. The use of less fertilizer and the decrease in the price of fertilizer caused them to grow the cheapest crops in years.

Georgia Boy Learned To Read at 2, Hopes To Get College Degree at 16

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 1.—(UP)—A junior attending the University of Georgia is still so young that he occasionally enjoys riding around town in a boy's wagon with a steering wheel on it.

He is Andrew W. Cain, 14-year-old member of the junior class of University of Georgia. His parents are Professor and Mrs. A. W. Cain, of Dahlonega.

The youth is so advanced in his studies that he had difficulty last summer in finding a college he could attend. It had been decided to have him enter the "pre-college" class being organized at Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill. It developed that a scholarship had been offered him in this class, but the class was limited to freshmen and Young Cain's scholastic attainments were those of a junior.

University of Georgia officials were not certain whether a 14-year-old boy could do university freshmen work. When they learned he was to be in the junior class, there was some doubt that he would be able to handle the work. The bars were let down for him, however, after reports of his high school and junior college work were submitted to the school authorities.

The protegee learned to read when he was 2 years old, entered the sixth grade when he was only 6, and now hopes to have his university degree when he is 16.

His father, Professor Cain, is professor of history at the North Georgia College at Dahlonega. Professor Cain was head of the Philippine normal schools of Manila for several years, and Mrs. Cain was head of the teachers' training department of the same school. When they lived in Gainesville, Ga., the school's enrollment increased from 700 students to 1,880.

Andrew was born in the Philippines while his father was in the Philippines. He first showed remarkable signs of intelligence at the age of 17 months. Mrs. Cain would travel with him, and he would get on a glass doll the word "hotel," and spell it aloud at the same time.

This so pleased the baby that he wanted the spelling lesson repeated. When they lived in Gainesville, Ga., for a year, the mother amused Andrew by spelling out all the words appearing in large letters on grocery cans.

CATTLE INDUSTRY TO BE BRIGHT

ALBANY, Ga., Jan. 1.—(Special.) Government aid for the beef cattle industry of Georgia and the entire country will be put up to congress as one of the changes to be made in the agricultural adjustment act, and action is anticipated in as short time as possible.

Colonel W. B. Hutchinson, president of the newly formed Georgia Beef Cattle Raisers' Association, called to the attention of President Roosevelt the injustice done to beef cattle producers by omission of beef cattle from the congressional act, and urged that it be corrected. The president, who maintains a large herd of beef cattle on his farm at Warm Springs, Ga., wrote Colonel Hutchinson the following letter:

"White House, Washington, Dec. 21.—Mr. W. B. Hutchinson, President Georgia Beef Cattle Raisers' Association, Albany, Ga., Dear Mr. Hutchinson:—

"Although, at the request of representative groups of cattlemen, cattle were included in that section of the agricultural adjustment act which defines basic commodities, every effort is being made to formulate a program for your industry that will make the basic commodities necessary for fundamental government. In the formulation of this program all agencies connected with the industry may be called upon to co-operate in the necessary steps for the accomplishment of this objective. I am sure that your association can be counted on to co-operate with the officials of the agricultural adjustment administration in their efforts to develop a comprehensive program and to give the moral support necessary to assure its success.

"In his recent address before the American Farm Bureau Federation at Chicago the secretary of agriculture mentioned several proposals that will probably be considered in the coming session of congress. Among the changes mentioned was the inclusion of beef cattle as a basic commodity under the terms of the adjustment act. If congress should act in this regard, the act a program may be developed for your industry that will follow the production control principle of the programs now in effect for the other commodities.

"Very sincerely yours, 'FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.' Working to secure legislative action, both state and national, is one of the basic objects of the Georgia Beef Cattle Raisers' Association, and the officers of the association are encouraged with prospects of their first effort in this line being crowned with success.

Another important matter which the association is working to bring about is to initiate emergency relief administration for the state of Georgia in the two-fold purpose of affording relief to the distressed cattlemen and providing an essential item of food for those citizens dependent upon relief agencies by buying, processing and distribution of fresh and chilled beef.

LaGrange Is Debt Free At Start of New Year

LAGRANGE, Ga., Jan. 1.—(AP)—LaGrange enters 1934 debt free, Mayor R. S. O'Neal announced today.

Two years ago the city was $40,000 in debt and $20,000 in debt a year ago, the announcement added.

The bonded indebtedness of $30,000 and interest has been retired and all current bills paid with a large proportion of 1933 taxes yet to be collected.

Approximately 200 city employees, including more than 100 teachers, were given 12 1/2 per cent salary increases last fall.

The mayor attributed accomplishment to co-operation of councilmen in adhering to economic policies, to departments in paring expenses and to the citizens for co-operation in making few requests.

The councilmen were W. F. Jarrell, S. O. Owen, Richard Hutchinson, F. L. Sotherman, J. K. Boatwright and Paul Hammett. J. H. Moss is city clerk and George Sargent, city engineer.

CONTRACTS SIGNED TO REDUCE COTTON

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Georgia farmers today called upon to sign contracts reducing their cotton acreage for the coming season to approximately 1,900,000 acres.

In return for the reduced acreage, the agricultural adjustment administration plan provides for rental and benefit payments of approximately $10,700,000. The plan is for a 40 per cent reduction of the five-year average of the annual acreage planted to cotton and is part of a south-wide program to restrict total plantings to 25,000,000 acres.

The goal of the administration in Georgia is a reduction of 1,283,000 acres. Over the five-year period of 1928-1932 Georgia farmers planted 3,229,000 acres of cotton. A 40 per cent reduction would mean they would plant about 1,946,000 acres this year.

The average annual production in Georgia during the five-year base period was 1,242,000 bales. A 40 per cent reduction would mean they would produce about 745,200 bales this year.

Harry L. Brown, acting director of the state agricultural extension service, said Georgia farmers during the five-year period had received $8,800,000 in rental payments on 98,326 contracts, covering 694,847 acres removed from production. Farmers in this state hold options on 313,000 acres of cotton at six cents a pound. An initial payment of $20 a bale is now available on the optioned cotton which would bring an additional $4,260,000.

Total benefits to Georgia farmers for taking 694,847 acres out of production in 1933, according to these estimates, would be $12,272,508.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Uncas Cressap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cressap's boathouse on Kettle Point, near the eastern end of Long Island, Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cressap's stepbrother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp-pointed implement killed Cressap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent. Captain Bray, a special investigator, and an old friend of Redd's, helps the men from the district attorney's office in solving the crime. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cressap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cressap's in order to protect Florence. Cressap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cressap, who was a drunkard and a debauchee. Of the servants, the Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino, are the most important, and there seemed to be some secret bond between them and their employer.

ed my protection and in whom I have a—hum, humph!—paternal interest. I told him that when next I encountered him I should be prepared to exterminate him as I would a—venomous adder."

"And what did he say when you promised him all this?"

"Sir, he slunk away like the cowardly and craven cur that he was. Not until he was a safe and comparatively remote distance did he deign to me with profanity to do my worst. At the moment, owing to a—hum, hum!—passing lassitude or debility affecting my lower limbs, I could not overtake him and strike him down in his tracks, strong though my righteous desire to do so was. But, sir, my mind fully was made up. I shouted after him my deadly intentions."

His words conjured up for me an indecent etching—peaceful, empty Pharaoh's Lane, and in the midst of it two obscure and sorry blots on the landscape, this monthy, slack jawed brace of burnt out sensualists swapping futile threats and blasphemies over some sordid scullery dog.

"Well, boss, since somebody else seems to have beat you to it, why be in such a rush to tell us your troubles?" demanded Bray.

"Because, sir, I anticipate that any eavesdropper, upon hearing what passed between us, might very well post himself off to the authorities to reveal my identity as a possible suspect. I choose, sir, to anticipate any such step by a frank avowal, face to face with you. You may so report to your superiors. You may inform them that if further statements should be desired I am to be found at my customary domicile. . . . And now, sir, and you, and you, I have the honor to bid you all good day."

"Just a minute," ordered Bray briskly. "You may be done with me, but I don't know as I'm quite done with you."

A sudden stiffening of Pettigrew's glazed eyes, told me we shortly were due to behold some of those insane combustions for which hereabouts the old crackbrain is notorious. His intermittent wheezes quickened and consolidated into a simmy, seething spatter.

"Have you the effrontery to seek, sir, to detain me?" he demanded, getting the words out between puffs. "That's the rough idea. And say, listen to me, old Fuss-and-Feathers, you might try just for politeness sake to hold onto your disposition."

"I know my rights under the law, sir. Unless you have a warrant for my apprehension, how dare you—"

"For instance, just where were you between say, 10 o'clock last night and midnight? And who else, if anybody, knows you were where you claim to be?"

"That, sir, is my business."

"Going to force me to find out for myself, eh?"

"Then, sir, it would become your business."

"And so you wouldn't be nice and tell me of your own accord?"

"Not in ten thousand years! There is, sir, such a thing as a gentleman's honor, although such a conception may be foreign to the frame of mind. There is such a thing as a lady's—hum—an innocent party's good name. So that, sir, for you and your minions!"

He made a valiant, vainglorious effort to snap his fingers under Bray's nose, but the chalky fingers threw off no sound. Showing remarkable agility, he whisked about and jerked himself out of the front door, and then, like so many petrified men, stood goggling at that preposterous scarecrow taking with string-halted steps down the flagstone footpath.

"Well, anyhow," said Bray, "we've got one more to add to our little catalog of them as think the man who got butchered up last night had it coming to him. I wonder if the list's going to keep growing the way it's started off? If it does, we might have considerable picking and choosing to do before it comes time to pinch somebody."

He got out a scratch pad and a pencil.

"What's that cranky old sou'se monicker, Gilly?"

He wrote it down. For most things Bray's memory always was good, but on proper names he would get twisted. The biggest scene of yesterday's crowded installment of this drama called for the full strength of the supporting company, as a theatrical ballyhoo would phrase it.

Misses Sage Make Formal Bow At Reception at Driving Club

Misses Margaret and Mary Sage, popular and attractive twin daughters of Mrs. Elizabeth T. Sage, made their debut yesterday at a tea given by their mother at the Piedmont Driving Club, the occasion assembling 150 members of younger society, including members of this season's Debutantes' Club, of which the Misses Sage are members, and their escorts.

Mrs. Sage and her daughters received in the living room of the club, which was beautifully decorated with pink roses and yellow snapdragons. Vases and baskets of these lovely flowers were arranged on the mantel, consoles and tables. The hostess and her guests received at the entrance room before a bank of palms and foliage plants interspersed by countless baskets and bouquets of flowers sent by the many admirers of the two popular debutantes.

Mrs. Sage wore a gown of black velvet made along modish lines and her shoulder bouquet was formed of gardenias and valley lilies. Miss Margaret Sage was dressed in a striking model of yellow crinkle crepe, the long graceful skirt extending into a short train at the back. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies and wore a shoulder cluster of deep purple orchids. Miss Mary Sage's gown was fashioned of starlight blue pebble crepe trimmed with rhinestone clips. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies and wore a shoulder spray of purple orchids.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Walter Hill, Mrs. Howard Ashburn, Mrs. Earl Scott, Mrs. Dan Sage and Misses Marguerite Scott, Laura Hill, Charlotte Sage, Edna Ashburn and Aurelia Speer. The beautifully appointed table was overlaid with an exquisite lace cover and graced in the center by a mound of pink roses from which arose an epergne filled with narcissi. Encircling the floral centerpiece were silver candlesticks holding pink tapers. Handsome silver services arranged at either end of the table added to the beauty of the table appointments.

Misses Sage are listed among Atlanta's most popular young belles and throughout the winter season they have been honored at innumerable social gayeties. Among the parties planned for them this week is the buffet supper at which Dr. and Mrs. Dan Sage will entertain Saturday evening, January 6, at their home in Ansley park.

Stanford, Coast's Best, Beaten by Columbia Lions, 7 to 0

BREAK O' DAY!

By Ralph McRae

A great year, this year of 1934. California has a flood and her best football team loses to one of the east's badly beaten teams—all in one day.

Columbia, the gem of the oceans, Atlantic and Pacific, beaten 20 to 0 by Princeton, outplayed Stanford all the way to win 7 to 0 in the Rose Bowl classic, upsetting the dope as badly as the oft-upset dope has ever been upset.

The double wingback system, which has always been a weak-scoring system from within the 20-yard line, failed time after time yesterday as the Columbia Lions held near the goal line.

Not only that but Stanford looked a bit dumb. Al Barabas, Columbia back, held the ball behind him on a reverse play and ran 17 yards to score while the Stanforders looked and saw not.

Ah, yes, a great day. And without wishing to infer that any prediction was made as to a Columbia victory, I would point out that no later than yesterday it was noted down here that the Columbia boys had just as many legs and arms and minds as the Stanford team. And that an upset was not improbable.

Well, well, well. It is a happy day. What would Princeton or Army have done to Stanford? Princeton won from Columbia about as she pleased, running up 20 points and then sending in substitutes.

And Columbia defeats Stanford, which had defeated Southern California! Isn't it a perfectly thrilling day?

"THE TROJANS WOULD HAVE WON"

I can hear the loud squawk on the coast right now.

"The Trojans woulda licked them guys. Why, the Trojans woulda won hands down."

They talk a great football game on the coast and I must admit they have some great teams. And I must admit also that I believe the Trojans of Southern California were the best team on the coast when the season closed. But they had lost to Stanford by the margin of two field goals and Stanford was, by the record, the better team.

The coast boys will not give up. They will immediately prove to their own satisfaction, that the Trojans would have won and that Stanford never was very good anyhow and why in the world were they ever selected for the Rose Bowl game and goodness knows Columbia was lucky. And so on, far into the winter.

Yes, Amigos, this will be a great lesson to the coast boys but it will not stop them talking a very fine football game and the old super-man idea.

It would be fine to be out there now and watch the long faces as they come out of the arroyo where the Rose Bowl is located.

A flood and an eastern victory—by a defeated eastern team—all in one day.

Don't cheer, pals, the poor boys are dying out there.

HUNK ANDERSON COMES SOUTH.

Hunk Anderson, lately resigned from Notre Dame, is coming south to coach at North Carolina State. And it would not be surprising were this to result in a decided football improvement at Raleigh.

The word is that one of the Reynolds boys, the tobacco kings, has interested himself in bringing Anderson to North Carolina State. The contract is for three years.

This means that the alumnus will also interest himself in sending some athletes to North Carolina State. Hunk Anderson, of course, will not have to listen to the alumni who badgered and worried Clipper Smith out of his job and almost out of his mind.

It means also a new interest in football in the Carolinas. And teams having the Wolfpack on their schedule for 1934 will be fortunate. There will be a great gate interest in Hunk Anderson's team next fall.

THE FORGOTTEN MAN.

Ralph Kercheval's play in the All-Star North-South game yesterday at Knoxville, was great football and, I think, a very fitting climax to what has been a brilliant career.

Ralph Kercheval is by way of being the Forgotten Man of southern football. He was, I am sure, an All-Southern player. He was a great kicker, a good ball carrier and blocked well.

He was not on the All-Southern team. And back of it is a story. I rather think that if the Kentucky football team of 1933 were asked about its season there would be a great deal of downright regret on the part of some players.

Officials told some queer stories about that team in some of its later games. They were stories which reflected shame on some and great credit on Ralph Kercheval and two or three of his mates who stayed in there and played the game all the way and all the time.

But his team went haywire and finished with a poor record. And that always detracts from a player's chances at making the all-star teams.

It is too bad that a great player and a great sportsman and competitor could not have played on a winning team and one which answered his challenge. And it is a great thing that he finished as he did—leading a team to victory.

THE OLD PENGUIN FAN.

Well, pals, I have a new ambition. It is to own a couple of penguins. Unless a couple of penguins, preferably house broken, come into my life there will always be one of those aching voids.

If a penguin salesman were to come to town right now he could do business. Quick business. And no arguments. I crave to have a couple of penguins or maybe four or six or eight or even ten. Or twelve.

Elsewhere in the paper is a story about the two penguins who visited the office yesterday. They came walking right into this office. And if you do not think it is just a mite startling to have a couple of those fellows march in like a couple of soldiers on parade then you are very much mistaken.

"Call the doctor," screamed Colonel McGill, as they walked in. One thing about the newspaper business. One doesn't get bored. Think it over. You are sitting in your office. And it is the morning after New Year's eve. AND A COUPLE OF PENGUINS MARCH INTO YOUR OFFICE. Now, I ask you. PENGUINS IN ATLANTA.

Well, they marched right into my heart. The leaky ticker opened right up and received them. Cute! Say, there is nothing in this world cuter than a penguin unless it is two penguins.

Captain Volney Phifer, technical man for M. G. M., brought them down. And sent them into the office. The captain is a great fellow. He's been everywhere, seen everything and can talk about it all intelligently and interestingly.

From now on I am a penguin addict. And my want ad reads—"Wanted, couple of penguins, preferably house broken. Must have."

Excuse it, please. I got to run and stare in the window at my penguins. And if someone kidnaps them while they are here I will be under suspicion.

SAUER IS HERO AS WEST WINS OVER EAST, 12-0

Plays Brilliant Game and Scores Both Touchdowns for Team.

By Russell J. Newland,

Associated Press Sports Writer. KEZAR STADIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—(AP)—Led by crash line George Sauer, hero of the University of Nebraska, West conquered East, 12-0, today in the football classic played here annually for charity.

Thirty thousand fans, who braved intermittent rains, saw the blond haired Sauer turn in as brilliant a performance as has ever been witnessed in the nine games that have been played to date.

From the time he crashed over for the two touchdowns in the opening period until he intercepted a pass in the closing minutes of play to check a final eastern bid, the Nebraska demonstrated just why he was selected for All-American honors after the 1933 season.

BRILLIANT STAR. On offense, Sauer was the spark-plug of the Western attack and his defensive play left nothing to be desired.

With the big Nebraska boy out of the lineup it might have been a different story. His teammates turned in a fine brand of "heads-up" football but in the final checkup it was his line smashing performance in the first quarter that resulted in the two touchdowns, while his last-minute interception of the pass resulted in the East leaving the field without a score.

The West snatched at a "break" to make its first score. The Easterners were backed up on their own 9-yard line but in possession of the ball.

Charles Sauer, of Colgate, quarterback, fumbled the ball and Mike Mikulak, of Oregon, fullback, recovered it on the 16-yard line.

From there Sarboe, of Washington State, quarterback, ripped a 4-yard run and Sauer took up the burden. On his fourth run with the ball, the Nebraska crashed over from the 3-yard line.

A short time later, the West put the ball into play on the East's 49-yard line. Sarboe picked up a yard and then passed to Fred Caninus, St. Mary's end, for a 17-yard gain.

It was the end of the East's 25 and on the next play, Sauer broke through right tackle and continued over the goal line.

KICKS GO WILD. Bill Smith, Washington, end, failed to convert the two tries for points. One of his place-kick attempts was wide and the other was blocked.

Beginning with the third period, the Eastern team opened an attack that had their Western rivals on the defense most of the time until the end of the game.

Three times, the East, coached by Andy Kerr, of Colgate, and Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, put on spectacular drives only to lose out on scoring chances when close to the goal.

In the third period the visiting stars moved the ball down the field for 64 yards to reach the West's 7-yard line, but lost 2. From this point, Clark Jorgensen, St. Mary's tackle, place-kicked but the ball was too far to the side.

70-YARD MARCH. The East retaliated with a 70-yard march, the longest of the game, losing the ball when Beattie Feathers, Tennessee, halfback, tossed a pass that fell incomplete over the goal.

Sauer punted 63 yards to send the Easterners back to their own 17-yard mark. It failed to daunt the visitors, who in two plays field back knocking at the Western goal.

Ed Danowski, Fordham, fullback, who occupied a starring role for the Easterners in the final hour of the game, tossed a forward pass to Winston Anderson, end, that gained 13 yards. On the next play the husky Fordham boy whipped a forward pass to Anderson, who tossed a lateral to Feathers and the latter ran 56 yards before being downed on the West's 14-yard line.

Feathers was intercepted by John Kirby, Idaho, halfback. It was the best run of the game and the only time the speedy Tennessee back was able to break away.

From the 14-yard line, the Easterners reached the 5-yard line on two rushes by Danowski. Feathers then led 4 yards and a pass by Joe Law, Iowa, halfback, was intercepted by Sauer. The game ended shortly afterward.

Statistically the East outplayed the boys coached by Orin Hollingsberg, of Washington State, and Percy Loefer, of Denver. The Easterners made 16 first downs to 7 for their rivals. The East chalked up 157 yards from scrimmage and 143 yards from eight passes. The West had 140 yards from scrimmage and 90 from two passes.

It was the sixth time since the game was inaugurated in 1925 that a Western team has triumphed, with the East winning the other three.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

Alex Morrison says:

Practice swings before you go to play a shot are a good thing only if they are properly made.

So many players step up on the first tee and make several swings apparently using all the force they can. Then they wonder why the swing they make at the ball proves to be weak and inaccurate.

In the practice swings they simply set a pace too fast to be duplicated at the ball. Certainly not to be duplicated before they have completely loosened up.

It is all the practice swing should serve to do—be an aid toward loosening up the muscles and joints—not to make a show of physical strength.

Swing slowly and easily before playing a shot and notice the help you get from it.

NORTH IS LED TO 7-0 VICTORY BY KERCHEVAL

Brackett Passes to Kimbrell for Only Score. Kicking Features.

By Roy E. Hutchens,

Associated Press Staff Writer. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Punting, passing and charging hard through a mighty opposing line, Ralph Kercheval, Kentucky's great halfback, led a group of northern teammates to a 7-0 victory over a southern galaxy of stars in a charity game today before 12,000 cheering fans.

The teams were composed of seniors and former gridiron luminaries from the 13 schools of the Southeastern conference.

The North scored in the third quarter when Brackett, Tennessee's quarterback, flipped a beautiful 15-yard pass to Kimbrell, Auburn halfback, who raced 18 yards down the sidelines to cross the goal standing up.

Heavy rains the night before had converted the field into a sea of mud and players wallowed and scooted through it until they were almost unrecognizable from the stands.

KICKING, PASSING. Both teams resorted to punting and passing attacks and with Kercheval's mighty toe, the North team soon took the advantage. Batchelor, Georgia's All-Southern end and member of the South team, proved a surprising match for the punting of the Kentucky side.

In the final period Batchelor sailed the ball 74 yards to the North's 12-yard stripe. He punted six times for an average of 44 yards, while Kercheval's average was 42 1/2 yards for 33 tries.

Although Jack Torrance, giant L. S. U. tackle, cleared the way several times and Zimmerman, of Tulane; Hitchcock, of Auburn, and Cain, of Alabama, all former stars, aided with their efforts during the second quarter, the South was never able to advance beyond the 17-yard stripe.

In the second quarter, Bobby Dodd and Buddy Hackman, Tennessee's famous passing combination of 1930, entered the game, and Dodd, who brought an aerial attack that brought a touchdown in the third period and a field goal in the fourth.

The game played under a brilliant torch light, saw a series of wall-to-wall drives by the Pittsburgh eleven in the final stages, with the Dukes scoring a touchdown in the third period and four more in quick succession in the fourth.

Miami, hitherto undefeated this season, put off their single touchdown in the final quarter via the aerial route after the Dukes had stolen the show with their fast-clicking passing machine.

The Pittsburghers, coached by Elmer Layden, who was the fullback for the famous four horsemen of Notre Dame, made three serious scoring threats in the first half to sweep the Hurricanes off their feet and pave the way for an overwhelming victory in the last two periods.

Aside from their one touchdown, the Miami, coached by Tommy McCall, with the assistance of Bob Zuppke, well-known Illinois mentor, never came within scoring distance of the Duke goal line.

His Punting Features

Ralph Kercheval, University of Kentucky's great star, featured the north-south all-star football game at Knoxville yesterday with his kicking. Kercheval played on the same team with Bobby Dodd, former Tennessee star and now Georgia Tech's backfield coach, who also was a great kicker in his college days. The North won, 7-0.

Sentiment Sends Foxx Off to Early Training

Philadelphians Say Home Run King Realizes Burden of "Carrying" A's Falls Upon Him.

By Jimmy Jones.

A significant item in the New Year's day news tells of Jimmy Foxx's early departure for Florida for the purpose of starting some early conditioning.

Connie Mack's rugged first baseman and lone survivor of the old constellation that included Al Simmons, Mule Haas, Lefty Grove, Mickey Cochrane, Jimmy Dykes, George Earnshaw, etc., apparently wants to get the jump on some of the competition he will have for American league batting honors next season.

Just why the husky Marylander should be worrying about this beyond immediate conception since he led the league in batting with .356, in home runs with 48, and in runs batted in with 163 during the 1933.

Hunk Anderson Signs Three-Year Contract With N. C. State

FORMER COACH AT NOTRE DAME TO START SOON

Expected To Direct Winter Drills; Replaces Clipper Smith.

By Paul Barkley.
RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 1.—(AP)—Hunk Anderson, the late Knute Rockne's right-hand man at Notre Dame and who succeeded him there, today signed a three-year contract to coach football at North Carolina State College here.

Anderson, who has been job hunting since he parted with Notre Dame shortly after the end of last season's football wars, came to terms with T. S. Johnson, acting chairman of State's athletic council, today in Washington.

The announcement, made here tonight by Dr. R. R. Semon, State's athletic director, merely said the contract was for three years. It did not go into details of the agreement, or the question of assistant coaches. Frank Reese, a former Notre Dame player, has been backfield coach for three seasons.

Anderson is expected to report in time for the Wolfpack's winter drills, which will begin January 15. His home is in South Bend, Ind., seat of Notre Dame.

He will succeed John P. "Clipper" Smith, also a Notre Dame product, whose contract was not renewed after State's disastrous season last year. The Wolfpack won only one game but played ties with Florida, Davidson and Wake Forest.

The signing of Anderson will bring to North Carolina another nationally known coach. Wallace Wade, who won fame with his Alabama eleven, is head coach of football at Duke University in Durham, about 28 miles from Raleigh. Duke won the 1933 Southern conference grid title.

Although Anderson generally was accepted as having been the track for the State post to consider a successor to Smith, and following that meeting it was reported Anderson was the No. 1 man.

It had been announced that the council would meet here Wednesday to consider the coaching question, but in view of developments this meeting will not be held.

With the signing of Anderson, it appeared that State college was apparently destined to go in for football on a big scale. The school is making preparations to increase the capacity of its stadium to 20,000. An addition was constructed last year boosting the number of seats to around 12,000.

Smith, who coached the Wolfpack for three seasons, already has returned to his home in Hartford, Conn.

THE SPORTLIGHT By Krawlow Rice

Did it ever occur to you that there is much more sport in the land of snow than there is in sun of the south?—L. J. F.

Brother, you may be right,
Taking it by and large;
There is the keen, swift flight
Of the steel-shod flying barge—
There is the ski that sings
Its music through the air,
Giving a man new wings
Over the frozen glare—
There is the spinning skate,
Bringing the old thrill—
There is the open skate,
Over some snow-swept hill.

Brother, you may be right,
Maybe I'm just a lunk,
Maybe my brain is light,
Maybe I'm just a punk—
Breasting the northern gale,
Watching the snowdrifts shine,
All of my dreams take sail
Down to the palm and pine;
Slip me the sun I love,
Make it a boiling vat,
I like it eighty above—
I'll take it hotter than that.

COLUMBIA'S VICTORY.
Football is a rough and tumble game of pressure and collision. It is not supposed to be a game of eternal sunshine and roses and violet beds. In general, it is a game of hard weather and hard blocking and hard tackling.

Considering all this, Columbia's game, scrappy football team starts 1934 under way with one of the greatest achievements of many years in sports.

The betting was Stanford by three touchdowns. Columbia was on a field that Tiny Thornhill, Stanford's coach, pronounced in fair condition for play.

When Barabas dashed over the Stanford line both he and his mates did more for eastern football than any team has ever done before. They won one of the greatest victories in football history. Columbia was supposed to be the same field for both teams and, when the final whistle sounded, the Blue and White caught the air of California above the Cardinal of Stanford.

Columbia has set a precedent for 1934 that the year ahead in sports will find hard to match. There can be no alphas that are not squawks. There was the same field for both teams and, when the final whistle sounded, the Blue and White caught the air of California above the Cardinal of Stanford.

BOXING BOARD WILL REGULATE SPORTS IN CITY

Ring Fathers Given Power To License All Connected With Game.

Atlanta's boxing commission, backed by a new ordinance, will be empowered to regulate the boxing and wrestling games this year. Under the new plan all wrestlers and boxers, promoters, referees and timekeepers must pay an operating fee.

All promoters must pay a fee of $25 per year. Wrestlers and boxers who appear in the state must each pay a fee of $5 per year. Referees will be licensed for a $10 fee and timekeepers must pay $3.

This is in line with the policy in all other states and cities. Atlanta is merely late in drawing up this regulatory measure.

It will assure the city of some control over the men who appear. Henry Weber, who took up the wrestling game and developed it into a popular sport when it was judged dead, has already mailed in his check and will advise all wrestlers who will appear in his shows that they must be licensed.

Weber has six heavyweights appearing here Wednesday night including Frank Speer and Herman Hickman in the main event.

In the past the city has suffered because so many small clubs put on small shows which were not profitable and which saw constant use of the same men week after week. The licensing of each contestant will enable city officials to keep a check on the wrestlers and boxers.

BADLY NEEDED.
The move is the logical one and is one which should have been in effect years ago. The new boxing commission includes W. T. Knight as chairman, John A. White and Howard Haire.

The ordinance giving the committee power to act reads as follows: An ordinance authorizing the boxing commission to charge a fee for the licensing of all contestants, referees, promoters, promoters and such others in accordance with the rules governing such sports, and also to license referees and promoters for the same, and any persons violating same shall be punished as hereinafter set out.

Section 1. From and after the approval of this ordinance the boxing commission of the city of Atlanta, Ga., shall have full power to license all contestants, referees, promoters, promoters and such others in accordance with the rules governing such sports, and also to license referees and promoters for the same, and any persons violating same shall be punished as hereinafter set out.

Section 2. After the commission shall be organized, it shall have full power to license all contestants, referees, promoters, promoters and such others in accordance with the rules governing such sports, and also to license referees and promoters for the same, and any persons violating same shall be punished as hereinafter set out.

Section 3. Any person who shall violate the rules and regulations set out in this ordinance shall be punished as hereinafter set out.

Section 4. Any person who shall violate the rules and regulations set out in this ordinance shall be punished as hereinafter set out.

Section 5. Any person who shall violate the rules and regulations set out in this ordinance shall be punished as hereinafter set out.

Section 6. Any person who shall violate the rules and regulations set out in this ordinance shall be punished as hereinafter set out.

Section 7. Any person who shall violate the rules and regulations set out in this ordinance shall be punished as hereinafter set out.

Section 8. Any person who shall violate the rules and regulations set out in this ordinance shall be punished as hereinafter set out.

Section 9. Any person who shall violate the rules and regulations set out in this ordinance shall be punished as hereinafter set out.

Section 10. Any person who shall violate the rules and regulations set out in this ordinance shall be punished as hereinafter set out.

State Coach WILSON; COOLEY TO HELP RIDLEY

Two Named Assistants at Muny Links; Green Fees Reduced.

By Roy White.
Cecil Reed and Hoke Cooley have been appointed assistant professionals at the Bobby Jones and Piedmont Park municipal courses, respectively. It was announced Monday.

Reed, who has been assisting Billy Wilson for the past two years, moved to the new Jones course Monday and will continue his duties as aid to Wilson starting this morning. Reed has been associated with municipal golf for many years and is thoroughly grounded in every phase of the game.

Cooley worked during his spare moments for Jeff Modie at the John A. White course, before reaching the age which deprived him of his amateur standing. He played well in both the state and city amateur tournaments last year and was the sensation of the state tournament at Thomasville. He was a member of the Tech High golf team last year.

Cooley will assist Chick Ridley, the new professional at the Piedmont Park course.

RUSH CADDIES.
A rush call was sent to the four nine-hole municipal courses for a supply of caddies Monday afternoon when the sun came out. There was little play during the morning, but when the sun came out early in the afternoon, more than 50 golfers jammed the starter's tee. The supply of caddies was exhausted in a few minutes and Wilson sent out an SOS for more.

The new Jones course has had its share of golfers since the opening Saturday afternoon, despite unfavorable weather conditions. There were more than 50 Sunday and a like number Monday.

A reduction of the green fees from $1 to 50 cents for the 18 holes during the week days with $1 for Saturday, Sunday and holidays has met with the approval of the city's players.

The 50-cent fee will be in effect today for the first time. Those fees conform to the rates at the other municipal courses, where 25 cents is charged for nine holes during the week days.

Parker broke service in the third game of the fourth set, to take a 2-1 lead. Each won his own service alternately in the subsequent games, Parker winning the tenth game, 4-0, to capture the set. He scored two ace service points in this game.

In the second set, service was broken in five of the first six games, with Parker winning on his own deuce in the fourth game, to give him a 4-2 lead. In the seventh game, Hunt won, but Parker also won on his own service in the eighth, and broke through in the ninth, 4-1, to take the set.

Parker had the Washington boy at match-point several times in the final set, the first break in service came in the third game, when Hunt won, 4-1. In the sixth game Parker broke through Hunt's delivery to win, 5-3, and take a 4-2 lead in games. They played alternately on service through the eighth game, which Parker won, 4-0, to take a 6-5 lead. In the twelfth game Parker broke through to take the game at 6-4, and the match.

IN GEORGIA'S FIELDS AND STREAMS By H. A. CARTER

CHANGE.
It is a common saying in zoology to say that nothing is constant except change. In the field of zoology, however, the change is not always according to the ideas of progress, but then, who knows what progress really is?

If the simplification of confusing masses of facts can be called progress, the recent publication of the third edition of the "Check-list of North American Amphibians and Reptiles" marks some real changes in the direction of progress.

Dr. Leonard Stejneger, of the United States National Museum, and Dr. Thomas Barbour, director of the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Harvard, are the co-authors of this work. The list had its first edition in 1917, its second in 1925, and the third, just off the press, marks a real advance in the naming of the North American species.

As to the why and how of these name changes, we have already said a great deal in this department. There is just one thing that I want to say, before leaving the subject of taxonomy.

Clearing Away.
Specimens collected during the summer are now en route to Harvard, where they will be stored for me at the Museum of Comparative Zoology. After a few more years of study in the field, I shall move to Cambridge, take up residence, and work on this self-made material as part of my graduate work.

The laboratory shelves are strange places. They are waiting for their quota of specimens. The crocks, the empty, absolutely innocent of turtles and large rattlesnakes. There is nothing ahead now but more field work. And how I am looking forward to it! Middle Georgia is going to get more attention this year. There will be some work in the Okefenokee, Seminole county will be carefully combed. All in all, I am ready for 1934. Are you?

Clear the decks! Hew to the line, and let the frogs flop where they may. Happy New Year to all.

SOUP KITCHENS
WILL NOT RETURN, DR. MCALIN SAYS
The old-style "soup kitchen" will probably not make its reappearance in Atlanta this winter, it was announced Monday by Dr. James R. McAlin, president of the Atlanta social welfare council, which has voiced its opposition to restoration of public feeding places in a resolution recently passed.

Dr. McAlin pointed out that since the million-dollar relief appropriation made last week by the city of Atlanta and Fulton county to take care of the several thousands who will be thrown back on city-county support since their release from federal relief rations, there will be no necessity for this form of relief. Dr. McAlin stated that although re-establishment of the kitchens had been advocated, that in view of the measures taken for providing general family relief he does not believe there will be any further discussion of the matter.

The resolution passed by the council pointed out that soup-kitchen programs do not afford adequate relief and means duplication of work, resulting that under such a system many men are fed who come to the kitchens as a matter of convenience rather than of necessity, and that the modern trend is toward the entire elimination of central feeding stations.

Fans Looking Forward To Hickman's Appearance
If he can wrestle like he plays football Atlanta mat patrons will be treated to some fast and fancy entertainment at the city auditorium Wednesday night when Herman Hickman, former Tennessee gridiron star, meets Frank Speer, also a famous football player.

This match, the feature of a three-event card, promises plenty of action and probably will go down in the books as one of the best ever staged here. Hickman was one of Tennessee's greatest football players and he has done himself proud in the bone-crushing business since becoming a wrestler. He has won fans all over the country and has defeated some of the big boys.

Speer will be a real test for Hickman, who is making his debut here. Speer has wrestled his way to the front ranks and now is regarded as one of the best of the "new crop." They will meet in a two-hour match.

Another famous football star will be seen in action when Mayes McLain steps in the ring with Henry Piers. McLain is a former All-American player from Iowa and also a top-notch matman.

Milo Steinborn, the German strong man, will take on Frank Judson, another college man, in the 30-minute match. Judson and Steinborn should be a close and exciting contest, with a clever and smooth performer, while the German relies mostly on his great strength to win his matches. His famous bear hug hold is feared by all his boys.

Fans desiring to purchase tickets in advance can do so at the Piedmont Hatters on Peachtree street.
